Venus in 10° Aries

Confidence is sexy. Boldness ignites passion. You woo lovers by wanting to explore the world with them. You seek to come off as quite independent, capable and tough. When it comes to attraction, you seek to be bristling with courage, vitality and allure.

Your communication style in romance is very direct. Rather than coyly asking a question, you're unapologetic in your delivery. To some, this can appear to be egoic. But it's generally important to you to feel confidence within love, and to feel confidence from your lover as well.

Even your relationships often begin with a bold start. Sometimes your attitude is "just do it". You make the first move, you initiate. On one hand, this can lead to various small sparks which weren't well thought out or potentially meaningful. On the other, if you can accept some failure, you will learn through each of your experiences. Depending on your attitude, it can be fun ride.

Your relationships work best with a strong degree of selfhood. There's a feeling of freedom and space when you can respect each other as individuals, continually growing from the newness of one another. At the same time, be wary of growing bored quickly. Often the juice and flame within the relationship has to come from within you.

The descriptions here are written explaining the aspect's positive qualities and potential gifts, as well as its unbalanced expression. The idea is that the individual has the capacity to direct their energy.

Sun Sextile Uranus

You celebrate a fierce brand of independence and individuality. Personal freedom, to you, is greater than gold. Your inner child burns bright, freely without restriction, as you allow it to roam wild. This leads you into many exciting, unexpected, experimental, and spontaneous experiences. There's no rules you haven't broken, naturally, and there's no tradition you haven't questioned. You are a pioneer; you don't walk the popular path nor the path less traveled – no, you walk an entirely new path.

Embrace the brand of weird that is you. People may consider you flaky and unpredictable, but that just comes with following your heart without resistance. Feeling unity with humanity allows you to break free of feeling alienated and misunderstood by people. At times you may find this path to be lonely, but remember your tribe of weird and wonderful human beings is out there waiting.

Moon Square Uranus

Variety is the spice of your life. Diverse experiences, people, and places are all what you seek. You believe a varied input gives you a unique and rich perspective on life. You are a sponge that passionately soaks up all the information and wisdom you encounter. You're a spontaneous being that is never caught in a dull moment, walking through life with a smile and a humorous charm, eagerly awaiting the next adventure to be had.

Your natural impulse is to seek new experiences, but, at times, your vagabond lifestyle can feel emotional, unsettling and erratic. You may feel an inner turmoil between a yearning of adventure and a yearning of stability. These moments are your signal to take a break, and reflect upon the experiences you have collected. Be wary of a tendency to be dominant in relationships, as this is rooted in your dislike of feeling your personal freedoms are restricted. Just remember you are in control of yourself at all times.

You have the capacity to feel rejuvenated and enlivened by the new. You seek to be on the cutting edge, passionate for new information, particularly for what is trending or ahead of its time. Combined with your creative imagination, there can be opportunities to channel this energy into unique enterprises.

When energies are balanced, the effect is breathtaking

Opportunity for deep stability, groundedness, unshakeable confidence

Flip flopping between energies at corners

Grand Cross between Neptune in 16° Capricorn, Venus in 10° Aries, Ascendant in 12° Cancer, and Moon in 13° Libra

The key thing about this Grand Cross is that the planets primarily fall in the Cardinal signs (Aries, Libra, Cancer, Capricorn). The chart is dominant in the characteristics of Cardinal signs which indicates a person who is quick to take initiative. They like getting things moving, acting on ideas rather than sitting around and posturing. They like to get their hands in the clay, endlessly exploring and starting things that ignite their fire. And yet, they can leave behind a string of projects left unfinished.

Sometimes they lack the perseverance needed to follow a project or adventure through its climbs and dull moments. Sometimes its that they expect external situations to continually stimulate them, finding it challenging to going through periods without theater. They can be chasers of the next adrenaline kick, social butterflies with numerous connections. They benefit from seeking more internal peace and balance. Ultimately, the gift of this placement is heightened attributes needed to be an explorer, with a vigor needed to encounter and break through to the new to find something completely unknown.
