Your share similar intellectual inclinations, being drawn towards areas that require an analytical and investigative mind. These skills when successfully applied allows you to ask the right questions to each other and truly understand the colorful makeup of your partner. This grows a tolerance of not only each other but of the world around you too.

When you combine your minds together there's a sense of ease when accomplishing goals. Together you work best when your ambitions are clearly defined and mapped out. This avoids the restlessness that Mercury may sometimes experience. Your love for intellectual exploration may sometimes stunt your relationships emotional growth, as you may only engage in things in a mental or superficial way. Delving deeper requires deepening one's emotional self and understanding of each other.

ASC

Mars's exuberant energy, in association with the Ascendant activates an infinite resource of energy for the relationship to draw from. You are outwardly seen as a very active couple. When needed, you can be each other's drill sergeant and coach each other out of a funk and back into productivity.

When in awareness of your power together, you operate as a team. You enjoy stimulating each other's competitive natures, all directed towards the advancement of the goal. You engage in bouts of "friendly" competition, which fast-tracks each other's mental and physical growth. But it is crucial to allow yourself time to relax and recuperate.

This energy works well when consciously towards a greater goal that encourages a working relationship with each other. Unconscious expenditure of this energy can manifest in unnecessary ego battling and other un-constructive activities.
